TO DRAIN BURNT LAKE.

A Big Thing for the Government.

We understand from E. Michener, M.P.P., that the Provincial Government intend sending down engineers to take estimates on what it will cost to drain Burnt Lake. It will be remembered that Mr. Michener has been urging the government to take some action on this question for some time, as some five thousand acres of valuable land would be reclaimed, railway building west would be facilitated and the government would benefit to the extent of many thousand dollars over and above the cost of draining, as the greatest depth of the water is about six feet. Not only would nobody be injured by such a step but everybody would be benefitted, especially the district surrounding the lake, the villages in the immediate neighborhood, and Red Deer as well. All the swamp and lake land reclaimed in this way is handed over to the Provincial Government by the Dominion.

Curlers' Banquet.

The annual banquet given by the losers in the President v. Vice-President match of the Red Deer Curling Club, with which is coupled the presentation of prizes and the election of officers, took place Monday night at the Windsor Hotel, and was one of the snappiest and most enjoyable evenings the members have had. There were about thirty present, and President Welliver kept things going in splendid style. The Windsor put up a capital spread, and thoroughly well sustained the reputation of the house in this line; consequently Mr. Humber's toast to The Host was royally received. With bright speeches, witty sallies, lively songs, rollicking choruses, clever recitation and the genial flow of comradeship and good cheer, the curlers put in several jolly hours.

ANNUAL REPORTS

President Welliver reviewed the work of the season, recalled the representation the Club had sent to the principal bonspiels, and spoke of the fine prospect for the coming season, with a good surplus on hand, with enough stock subscribed to warrant going on with the building of a three sheet rink which would afford increased accommodation, and with the increase of membership which the growth of the town and the increased accommodation would warrant.

The report of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Payne, duly audited, showed a balance of some $80 on hand.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers resulted as follows :—

Hon. President—Judge Lees

Hon- Vice-President—R. B. Welliver.

President —R. C. Brumpton

Vice-President—T. A. Gaetz

Secretary-Treasurer—Hugh Clarke.

Executive. — The Officers, and Messrs. Stephenson, Payne, Humber Lindsay and Welliver.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES.

The Red Deer cup, and individual stickoins, given by the President, were presented by Mr. Welliver to Mr. A. T. Stephenson's rink—Gillespie, Boyce, Carscallen and Stephenson, skip.

The Brumpton cup and individual silver medals suitably inscribed, given by Mr. Brumpton, were presented by the Vice-President to Mr. Welliver's rink—Huskins, Newton, .A. R. Gibson, Welliver, skip.

The Scott cup, for individual players, with watch fob given by the Club was presented by Mr Stephenson to the winner, Rev. W. G. Brown.

The Stephenson cup, won again this year by the donor's rink, was presented by Mr. Greene to Mr. Stephenson. The Club added individual smoking sets for each member of the rink.

The Payne cup, with individual scarf pins given by Mr. Payne, was presented by the donor to Mr. Brumpton's rink—McKay, Byers, Brown Brumpton, skip.

Those who presented the trophies and those who received them did so in bright and happy speeches, with all kinds of humorous accompaniments from the party. Judge Lees and Mr. Brown were also called on to respond to the toast of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, the parent association.

The instrumental music was supplied by Mr. Wright ; Chief Robinie, Mr. T. A. Gaetz, and Mr. Harry Wallace gave songs, and Mr. W. H. Huskins a recitation, all of which were warmly acclaimed. The event closed about 1.30 with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

John Muir, organizer of the C.O.F. will be in town for a few days and attend a special meeting of Court Red Deer, on Friday evening. All members are urged to be present.

A Publicity Campaign.

Owing to a strong forward movement by a number of the public spirited citizens of Red Deer, a fund of $3000 has been subscribed towards a publicity campaign for the town and they are beholding to no one, because they pay the whole amount themselves.

But we contend the principal is wrong. At the present time the business men of the two principal streets pay nearly the entire cost of subscriptions for about a hundred and one things while those on the outskirts and non-residents besides, escape without making any donation

We contend that about twenty per cent. of the assessable property of the town is owned by non-residents and they should pay for publicity as well as the enterprising citizen and the only way to make them is for the town to make a grant for publicity purposes through the Council. At the present time we believe sixty-five per cent. or over of the property of Red Deer is owned by public spirited citizens who are strongly in favor of a strong, aggressive campaign There is not more than ten or fifteen per cent of property owners who would oppose the Council giving a certain amount towards advertising the town, yet we are absolutely resting on our oars while private citizens are striving by every known means to get the town off to a good start.

Nothing can stop Red Deer's growth., we are bound to go ahead, we have everything that goes to make a first class city, but we must have a little more steam, energy, electricity, or whatever you choose to call it, and it is about time in our estimation, for the Council to help along the good work.

Baptist Church Harvest Festival.

The Harvest Home services at the Baptist church on Sunday were well attended, the morning service being taken by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Tyner, and the evening by Rev. N. D. Heith, principal of the new Presbyterian Ladies' College. The church was appropriately decorated with grains and roots, and suitable music was provided. On Monday evening a hot bean supper was served from six to eight, in the basement, after which an adjournment was made to the audotorium, where Rev. F. W. Patterson, of Edmonton, delivered a very fine lecture on "The Making of a Home." Mr. Patterson's lecture was much enjoyed, and he will no doubt be favored with a crowded house should he decide to give a return lecture here. Miss Huestis and Mr. H. French assisted in the programme of the evening, and were much enjoyed. Proceeds of lecture and supper were $65.00, and the Baptists desire to thank their friends who helped by donations to make it a success.

ROAD BUILDING IN THE WEST.

Road to Rocky Mountain House Nearly Completed.

E. Michener made a final trip through the western country to the Rocky Mountain House last week to be able to report to the next session of the legislature, which meets the 3ed of November, on the conditions of the roads and the requirements of his district.

He reports the road for 35 miles west pretty good, then there is a stretch of about eight miles before reaching the Clearwater river in very bad condition. He will strive to have this muskeg bridged by a good strong corduroy road this winter, which would then give a good trail or road all the way to the Rocky Mountain House.

Mr. Michener also expects next year to get a good road from the steel bridge on the Clearwater west of Evarts into Evarts, and expects also to build a good road from Lesliieville west.

Owing to the unsettled state of the government the past summer less money than usual was spent on roads but it is expected more will be done next year, Certainly Mr. Michener has spent all available cash on the roads he could get.

At a public meeting at Prairie Rose school, near Leslieville, last Wednesday night, where a large number of farmers and ranchers turned out to discuss matters of public interest, a unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Michener for his untiring efforts on behalf of the citizens at large in giving them good roads.

A Sad Tragedy.

A very sad accident, resulting in the blotting out of a bright young life, occurred at the home of Mr, and Mrs. J. Stevenson, Little Red Deer, on Tuesday morning. Charles Edward Levick, youngest son of Mrs. Stevenson, was the victim.

An older brother had loaded a gun in anticipation of shooting some geese passing over the house, and left the gun loaded in the kitchen while he went out to milk. The younger lad pulled the gun by the muzzle towards him, with the result that it was discharged, the entire charge of shot striking the boy's face below the chin tearing off all one side of his face. Death must have been instantaneous.

Mr. Stevenson, step-father of the boy, was absent at the time, being on his homestead at the Raven,

WHY EITHER BOUNTIES OR PROTECTION ?

The period during which iron and steel bounties are payable, under legislation now upon the statute book, will expire with the end of the present year and recipients of these bounties are already beginning to protest against being left out in the cold altogether. They say if bounties are withdrawn they certainly must have more protection and some professedly Liberal journals are actually discussing which would be the least objectionable form of aid, bounty or protection.

Why either form, asks the Farmers Sun ? A report prepared some time since by a financial firm, evidently by instructions of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company, showed that this particular indistry had, during the years ending with 1909, made net earnings sufficient, without the aid of bounties, to pay 4 1-3 per cent. dividends on its comman stock. It must be remembered, too, that during the period under review the earnings of the company had been greatly curtailed owing to costly and senseless litigation carried on with the Dominion Coal company. Had there been no litigation, and there need not have been any, there is reason to believe earnings would have been sufficient to pay 5 per cent, on stock, much of which went into the hands of the original holders at about 15 per cent. of its face value.

There is no need of bounties in such a case as that and to increase the protection now enjoyed (the tariff on steel rails, even under the preference is equal to 30 per cent. in the cost of manufacture) would be an outrage.

The New York Commercial says that the average price of Portland cement in the United States last year was less than 81 cents per bbl., and declares that owing to improvements in the method of manufacture, it can now be manufactured at a profit at 60c a barrel. This, of course, is the price at the mill, but after allowance is made for freight and cost of handling, it should be possible to deliver the cement in car lots, at practically any point where it is to be consumed at $1 per barrel, or a little over, and still make a fair profit. From this statement some idea can be formed of how much the cement combine has been enabled to tax the consumers of Canada by means of the tariff.

An Early Pioneer.

An Obituary Sketch of a Leeds Patriarch Who Died in 1869.

We take the following from the Brockville Times, relating to one of Ontario's early pioneers. It will be noticed he was born in 1790, one hundred and twenty years ago, yet his son, Geo. W. Greene, barrister of Red Deer, is still in his prime :

The following obituary sketch, taken from the Brockville Monitor in an issue of the year 1869, will be almost as interesting to Leeds people to-day as it was forty-one years ago:

A CANADIAN PATRIARCH.

On the 7th of the last month there died in the township of Yonge, some eighteen miles from Brockville, a venerable Canadian patriarch Mr. William Green, in the 79th year of his age. A staunch Conservative in politics, of quiet and unassuming manners, of thrifty and industrious habits, he was the true type of the sterling Canadian settler, and deserves more than a passing notice. From a sketch drawn up by one of his family, we condense the following brief biography, which cannot fail to be interesting to our readers as well as instructive.

William Green was born in the County of Wexford, Ireland, in the year 1790, and was consequently eight years old when the terrible events of '98 so agitated the surrounding neighborhood. With no fortune beyond a stout pair of arms and a courageous heart, he left home at the early age of 18, and sailed for the United States where he landed at New York. He at once pushed on into the interior of the state, to the township of Carlisle, where he found good and steady employment as a farm laborer. So well did he conduct himself, that he was enabled in 1814 to marry the daughter of a wealthy farmer named Ferris. In the following year he determined to seek a home for himself in Canada and set out for that country on foot.

The fall season was well advanced when he arrived at Brockville, then but a small village, scattered along the St. Lawrence, and having only two stores, one of which was owned by Billy Flint, and the other by the father of the Dunham family. From Brockville he proceeded to Farmersville, then called Wiltsie Town, three miles from which he purchased a squatter's right of lot 23 in the 8th Concession of Yonge. Having made all needful preparations he proceeded to the state of New York in January 1816 for his wife, and was speedily settled on his new farm, where his first child, Mr. Peter Green, Post Master of Charleston, was born. Providence smiled on his labors, and he was enabled in 1820 to send for his parents to Ireland. They found a happy home for their old age at their son's fireside in Canada, and resided with him or near him until their deaths. Like all other people Mr. Green's life was not unclouded by misfortune. In the month of January, 1824, a fire broke out at night in his dwelling, and his family and himself escaped with thier lives, in their night clothes. In 1844 he lost his wife, who had lived with him for 29 years. He married, a second time. He had seven children by his first wife and ten by his second, sixteen of whom are still living. Fourteen of his childen attended his funeral, as well as a large number of persons of all denominations, and after the sublime and beautiful burial service of the Church of England was read the remains of the patriarch was committed to its kindred dust at Lansdowne. Mr. Green died in very easy circumstances, and left his family well provided for. The poor Irish boy battled successfully with life in the Canadian forest, and died full of years and honor, surrounded by a numerous posterity and troops of friends.

Of the children of the deceased, six are living, namely: Mrs. Wm. Johnston and Mrs. Chas. Rowsome of Athens ; Mrs. Jas, Seymour of Toledo ; Mr. Geo. W. Green, barrister, of Red Deer, Alberta ; and Mr. Alex Green, of Swift Current, Sask.

The career of Mr. Green as sketched in this extract from a newspaper published over forty years ago is that of a typical Canadian pioneer one of those fine characters who helped to make Canada what it is to-day, and to whom so much honor and credit is due by the present generation. And to-day, as then, there is no better stock in the world for Canada than the Irish, Scottish and English, with their centuries of noble history and tradition among them.

Calgary Daily News goes Into Liquidation.

Appears to have been a Rutherford Government Organ

It Costs Money to Run a Newspaper.

The Trusts and Guarantee Company, of Calgary, was appointed liquidator by an order issued out of the Supreme Court on Tuesday of last week by Justice Stuart in connection with the winding up of the affairs of the News Publishing Company, Limited, of that city, on the petition of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

It was also ordered that the assets of the company be advertised for sale by tender within ten days in one newspaper in each of the cities of Calgary, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

At the hearing of the application made by James Short, K.C., on behalf of the bank, a statement was read giving the names of the following as shareholders in the company: C. W. Cross, $14,000 ; W. H. Cushing, $5,000 ; A. C. Rutherford, $2,000 ; W. T. Finlay, $2,000 ; Hon. Frank Oliver, $1,500 ; J. A. McIntosh, $1,500, in $100 shares.

The capitalization of the company was given as $30,000, of which D. McGillicuddy was registered as owning 298 shares, and although the capitalization of the company was not increased, the shares named were held by the above parties.

SOME OF LIABILITIES.

Among the liabilities of the company is a claim for $25,000 from D. McGillicuddy, managing director, for cash advanced to the business, but the claim that this entitled him to a voice in the appointment of a liquidator was overruled by Mr. Justice Stuart.

Mr. Short for the rmperial Bank had previously selected L. F. Garry as liquidator, and at the meeting of shareholders held on Friday night last, George Robinson was selected. After considerable discussion between opposing counsel, during which Mr. Short argued that if the books and statements were no more reliable than the statement made by the secretary on Monday in regard to a resolution passed at the meeting of shareholders, not much reliance could be placed on them His Lordship suggested that a disinterested party be appointed liquidator, and Mr. Short nominated the Trust and Guarantee company as being acceptable.

SOME LIVELY SPARRING.

During the discussion, Mr. McClaws, of the firm of Lougheed and Beanett, who was watching the proceedings on behalf of some clients, interjeted the remark : "There is altogether too much politics in this thing," which was promptly characterized by Mr. Short as "impertinent and uncalled for in toe case."

Beseiged in their monastery by an infuriated mab, and in danger of their lives, the Jesuits of Lisbon hoisted a flag ; the mob at sight of it withdrew and the inmates of the monastery were saved. It was the Union Jack —the flag that was not deemed an appropriate decoration for the Montreal city hall during the Eucharistic congress.

There were many others whose suggestions were worthy of special mention, and fully appreciated.

Correspondence.

IS PROTESTANTISM
DECLINING ?

To the Editor of The News.

Mr. Editor.—The above question is raised by Amos Wilton in a recent issue of the News, and also I believe fully and concisely answered in his very clear letter. In our times Protestantism does not necessarily mean Christianity ; it practically did at one time, when the lines of cleavage were distinct as between Rome and the reformed church. Now a clearly defined line could be drawn between Protestantism and Christianity, the former cannot be said to be on the decline, numerically, I suppose, but as to the latter, higher criticism has undoubtedly to a very serious extent destroyed it. I agree with A. W. that higher criticism is in substance infidelity. It is said this thing " is creeping into the church," that is putting it very mildly, so mildly indeed that it really amounts to a perversion of the facts, it has crept in years ago, it is there to stay, in fact it is the young cowbird which has ousted already the rightful occupants of the nest. It seems very strange, though, that Father Vaughan should go out of his way to reproach Protestantism for " tearing Christ out of its religion," seeing he lives in a glass house. If Protestantism has " torn out Christ " from their religion, and put a mere man (a good man if you will) in his place, thereby denying the divinity of Christ, Rome has long ago done the same and put a woman in His place ! She has given the Virgin a place of divine preeminence equal to the Trinity. Can they deny it ? The reproaches of Father Vaughan are certainly ill-timed and ill-advised, still they may serve a useful purpose in drawing attention to a very serious condition of things existing right in the very vitals of Protestantism, and none the less true, though coming from a source equally guilty. A. W. rightly thinks this question should be taken up ; it has been taken up, but who pays any attention to it? Protestantism today is a lady of " easy virtue, pay your church dues, and keep your mouth closed about the divinity of Christ, and let's have peace and quietness, is her motto. Quite recently a minister said " I have my doubts as to the resurrection of Christ, but my faith remains the same," and yet scripture says " if Christ be not raised, ye are yet in your sins. Your faith is vain." Any form of Christianity that eliminates this doctrine, or compromises weakly on it, is a pure sham. A. W. is right—" all the Bible or none. "

A PROTESTANT.

Woman's Beauty

It only Comes to Those Who Take Care of Their Hair.

Have you seen a pretty face with regular features, clear skin, pearly teeth and plenty of animation and vivacity, and yet remarked that there was something lacking that really made the individual less charming than her sister of plainer possessions ? A moment's study of such a face will show you that it is a want of luxuriant hair which makes the difference.

The woman who wishes to retain her youth must look after her hair—the woman with scant, unattractive hair is never admired.

Society women realize the truth of this statement, and that is why so many of New York's loveliest women demand that Parisian Sage be used by their hairdressers.

Parisian Sage is now on sale in nearly every town of consequence in Canada, and has enormous sales wherever it has been introduced.

It is guaranteed by Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

Eczema Is Not a Blood Disease

For this reason internal treatment fails to cure—Success of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Experience with the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment will soon convince anyone that eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood.

A large percentage of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment are after the patient has become tired of tedious internal treatment with no apparent result.

Apply Dr. Chase's Ointment and it is not long until there is relief from the dreadful itching and a beginning of the process of healing up the sores. When you have tested this soothing healing ointment you will wonder why you ever wasted time with internal treatment for eczema.

Mr. D. Macauley, Stornoway, Que., writes:—"I had itching eczema on my leg for over five years and tried many remedies and several Doctors without benefit. Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me completely."

Mrs. Chas. Gilbert, Haystack, Placentia Bay, Nfld., writes:—"I was a sufferer from salt rheum for ten years and was tired by eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. I am heartily thankful for this cure, and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to other sufferers."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is wonderfully soothing and healing. By its antiseptic powers it cleans out the sores, stops the agonizing itching and soon sets up the process of healing which means thorough cure, if the treatment is persisted in.

Why not get the cure started today? If you are a sufferer from eczema or any form of itching skin disease you will thank the day you heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment. 60 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto, Canada. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

A teacher in a Midland town is noted for his patriotic fervor. One morning, while in a particularly uplifted mood, he turned to one of his pupils, an average boy of twelve.

"I should think," replied Tommy, "that the wind was blowing."

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Striking Example of Its Cure by The Tonic Treatment.

St. Vitus dance is the commonest form of nerve trouble which afflicts children, because of the great demands made on the body by growth and development, and there is the added strain caused by study. It is when these demands become so great that they impoverish the blood, and the nerves fail to receive their full supply of nourishment, that the nervous debility which leads to St. Vitus dance.

The remarkable success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing St. Vitus dance should lead parents to give their children this great blood-building medicine at the first signs of the approach of the disease. Pallor, listlessness, inattention, restlessness and irritability are all symptoms which early show that the blood and nerves are failing to meet the demands made upon them. Mrs. A. Winters, Virden, Man., says: "When my little girl was six years old she was attacked with St. Vitus dance. This was followed by St. Vitus dance. Her limbs would jerk and twitch. Her speech became affected, and at last she became so bad that she could scarcely walk, and we hardly dared trust her alone. She was under the care of a doctor, but in spite of this was steadily growing worse, and we feared that we would lose her. As Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her older sister of anaemia I decided to try them again. After the use of a few boxes, to our great joy, we found they were helping her, and in the course of a few weeks more her power of speech fully returned, and she could walk and go about as well as any child, and she has been well and healthy since. When illness come to any one of our family now, we never call in a doctor, but simply use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they never disappoint us."

SCOTLAND YARD.

Its Council of Sleuths Is a Thing Dreaded by Evil-Doers.

In the great, rather grim, red-brick building which, like a medieval fortress, dominates the Thames, within a stone's throw of the Houses of Parliament, there is a large, barely-furnished room, which holds more secrets than any other in London, with the possible exception of the the room of Cabinet mysteries. It is the nerve centre of England's great and complex detective system, which controls the currents radiating all the world over for the discovery of crime; and it is in this secret chamber that the mysterious Council of Seven hold their meetings to unravel the tangled skeins of tragedy.

If walls could speak, the walls of this room could unfold stories of romance, tragedy, and mystery such as would drive the writers of fiction to despair; but there is no form of stripe which has not been dissected and laid bare there in all its complex and naked hideousness. But walls are dumb; and so are the members of this secret Council, who recognize that silence is one of their most powerful weapons.

This Council has not long been in existence; in fact, it is practically unknown to the outside world. It is only a short time since it occurred to the authorities of New Scotland Yard that, in place of casual conferences between detectives engaged in the investigation of some specific crime, it would be well to appoint a body of their cleverest detectives—men of acute and astute brains, with long experience behind them of criminals—to combine their efforts in solving the principal mysteries; and, as might be expected, the plan has worked admirably.

The greatest care has naturally been taken in choosing men for this responsible work. It was important that the Council should, as far as possible, cover the whole range of crime The detective who has specialized in murder or burglary may have little to say, coiners and begging-letter imposters; and thus the leading expert in each of the principal branches of crime was chosen that he might bring practically all that is to be known about their own branch and its professors, and whose names even are a terror to evil-doers the whole world over.

But let us see how this Council works. Suppose that a mysterious murder has taken place in London Within a few minutes after it has been reported to the nearest police station the detective-inspector and his assistants are on the spot making investigations. Meanwhile the news has been flashed to New Scotland Yard; and almost before the local police have well commenced their inquiries a member of the Council—the man whose special province it is —appears on the scene and takes charge of the operations.

If the problem is a fairly simple one, as it often is, and the murderer is speedily run to earth, the services of the Council are naturally not required. But if there is no sufficient clue to the assassin, or he has made his escape good, the Council is at once summoned, and takes the case in hand.

All the available evidence is placed before it, and thoroughly sifted. Deductions are made, a plan of campaign is drawn up, and the whole of the complicated and far-reaching machinery of Scotland Yard is set to work under the collective guidance of the cleverest detective brains in England. How energetically and thoroughly the Council does its work has been shown in the recent Crippen case, in which a closely-meshed net was in a few days thrown round the world for the capture of the criminal

Schools for Baroda.

A small, dark man, accompanied by two beautiful women in eastern dress and with a train of olive-skinned dependents, landed in England the other day. No one who saw him land or who watched his pleasant, modest demeanor on board during the voyage from America would have guessed that he was the ruler over 2,000,000 people, the richest, one of the most enlightened, and one of the most powerful of the princes of the native states of India. The Gaekwar of Baroda is a great admirer of English institutions He has been especially struck with the quiet, friendly charm of its country life. "One object of my journey," he said, "is to add to my knowledge of educational methods and ideals Baroda is the only state in India where schools are free and compulsory. I established them because I am sure that it is useless to expect any real progress among the Indian people until they are less ignorant.

A Singular Request.

A peculiar fate is said to overhang the family of the late Sir Julian Goldsmid. An ancestor of his, so says the legend, once gave shelter to a rabbi, who at his death left to him a bequest of a mysterious box which was on no account to be opened until after the customary seven days of mourning. If opened before that time a curse would fall upon the family. Curiosity got the better of superstition, and the box was opened before the seven days were up. In it was found a document which said that as the injunction of the rabbi had not been heeded no future owner of the estate would be succeeded by a son. And such, strangely enough, has been the case ever since.

Cheetahs Train For the Hunt.

Trained cheetahs are used in Persia and India in much the same manner that hounds are used in European and North American countries. The game they are used to hunt is principally deer and antelope. The cheetah is an animal with black and brown spots resembling a leopard, but longer in body and limb. The Indian princes keep packs of these for the hunt. The heads of the hunting cheetahs are usually covered with a hood until within 200 yards of the game. The hoods are then removed, and the animals creep stealthily toward the herd and, having approached as near as possible, pounce upon their prey, killing with one blow of the paw.

"The self-made man is splendid," said Andrew Carnegie, at a dinner in Washington, "if he makes himself a mental and spiritual, no less than a financial success.

"Too many self-made men neglect the intellectual side. This sometimes —at commencements, for example— puts them at a disadvantage.

"I know a self-made man who said at a commencement to his nephew:

"'Well, Tommy, my son, what do they teach you here?'

"'Latin and Greek,' the boy replied, 'and German and Algebra.'

"'Dear me!' cried the self-made man. 'And what's the algebra for turnip?'"

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

The Lord's House In the Top of the Mountains

"It shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it" (Isaiah ii, 2).

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 18.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle preached two times today to the local branch of the International Bible Students' Association. He had an excellent hearing and large and intelligent audiences. One address was entitled, "The Great Hereafter." The other we now report. The speaker said:—

Our text has not yet been fulfilled, but we believe the beginning of its fulfillment to be near. It pictures Messiah's Kingdom, for which Christian people have long been waiting and praying, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as in heaven"—the same Kingdom for which the Jews so long waited and are still waiting. Our text relates, not to the spiritual part of the Kingdom, which the Gospel Church is called to share, but to the earthly part of the Kingdom, which belongs to the natural seed of Abraham. A great mistake has been made by many of us in the past, in that we have not discerned and acknowledged the two Israels, spiritual and natural, and the separate rewards and blessings apportioned to these by the Divine promises of the Scriptures. Both are to be seed of God in fulfilling the promise made to Abraham—in blessing all the families of the earth.

After the completion of Messiah, Head and Members, on the plane of glory, the New Covenant will be inaugurated with Israel, as the Scriptures distinctly teach (Jeremiah xxxi, 31-34). Our text, therefore, waits for its accomplishment until the last member of the elect Church of Christ shall have passed beyond the vail.

In the symbolic language of the Scriptures a mountain is always symbolical of a Kingdom. Hence the mountain of the Lord's house means the Kingdom of God and that royal house or family recognized by him. For instance, we read that David sat upon the throne of the Kingdom of the Lord and that God made a Covenant with him, "even the sure mercies of David"—that none but his Seed, his posterity, would ever be recognized as the Divinely appointed representatives of God in kingly authority and power. In other words, Messiah was to be the offspring of David, the great antitypical David (Beloved), who must reign from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth."

The Messiah-King on the spirit plane, the Son of God (and like God invisible to men, as are also the angels), is the antitypical David and the antitypical Solomon, the wise, the great, the rich. In the days of his flesh our Lord was the Son of David according to the flesh, though begotten of a divine power and tainted by any human imperfection. He was, therefore, holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners. His faithfulness to the will of the Father made him subject to all of the experiences of suffering and death, as expressed in his own words. The cup which my Father hath poured for me, shall I refuse to drink it? His obedience unto death, even the death of the cross, demonstrated his loyalty to the last degree and he received the high reward appropriated. "Him hath God also highly exalted and given a name that is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, both of things in heaven and things in earth."

Exalted to the right hand of Divine favor he waits only for the Father's time to take to himself his great power and reign (Revelation xi, 17). Meantime, in harmony with the Divine will, purposed before the foundation of the world, he acts as advocate for such as have the hearing ear and the obedient heart and will now respond to the special invitation of the Gospel Age. That call is to leave the world, its sins, its pleasures and its hopes, and to walk by faith in the exceeding great and precious promises of God — the things which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath entered into the heart of man. These are the heavenly things promised them as the Bride and joint-heir with their Redeemer in his glorious Kingdom to come and its blessed work of uplifting Israel and the world.

We have before our minds the antitypical house of David, Messiah's kingly household, the royal priesthood Divinely prepared. As a Kingdom it will be at the top, above all the kingdoms of earth. Not only will this be true of spiritual Kingdom (invisible to men as the angels are invisible), but it will include also an earthly Kingdom composed of "Israelites indeed." At their head as princes in all the earth will stand the resurrected Ancient Worthies, perfected as men and samples of what all mankind, by obedience to the laws of the Kingdom may attain to, with eternal life. These Ancient Worthies are enumerated in the Scriptures—Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the prophets, etc., and described by St. Paul in Hebrews xi, 38-40. To these belong the earthly promises of the Old Testament. They never heard of the heavenly or spiritual promises They loyally will gain a reward in the fact that they will come forth from the tomb no longer blemished and imperfect, but fully, completely restored to the perfection originally enjoyed by father Adam. Additionally these will have the special guidance and instruction of Messiah (Head and members) in all the affairs of mankind. Thus as the Master said, speaking of that time, "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the Prophets in the Kingdom" (Luke xiii. 28).

God's Kingdom will be represented in the earth by Israel—especially by these saintly men of Israel, now perfected perfect, who will be the special appointees and representatives of the glorified Messiah's rule. As it is written, instead of thy fathers (the ancient saintly ones were styled "the fathers," as Jesus was styled the Son of Abraham and David) shall be thy children, whom thou mayest make princes in all the earth (Psalm xlv, 16). These princes, acting under and continually in contact with the spiritual Kingdom and rulers styled in the Scriptures "the royal priesthood," will, of course, be so superior in their wisdom and power to command the obedience of the whole earth. The nation of Israel, with whom they are related, would naturally respond more quickly than others to the new order of things, which will be just that for which they have been waiting and praying for more than thirty centuries.

In these words the Lord through the prophet assures us of the wonderful success which will attend the establishment of the New Empire and of the dominion of the Prince of light, which will supersede the dominion of the Prince of darkness, when Satan shall be bound for a thousand years, that he may deceive the peoples no more. Messiah's Kingdom will be high above all other Kingdoms, not only in its grandeur, majesty and authority, but also in the lofty principles which it will represent. Thus it is written, "He shall lay righteousness to the line and justice to the plummet and the hail (Truth) shall sweep away the refuge of lies" (Isaiah xxviii, 17). Nevertheless, as the world shall come to appreciate the new order of things all nations shall flow unto it, flow up to it—contrary to the downwardness of fallen human nature. It will require manifest such wonderful rewards for righteousness and obedience to God and it will so make manifest the stripes that must attend a willful disobedience to the Divine arrangement that the Scripture will be fulfilled which declares that when the judgments of the Lord are abroad in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness (Isaiah xxvi, 9).

Humanity for six thousand years has been learning "the exceeding sinfulness of sin," its downward tendency in every sense of the word. Every form of Government has been tried in an endeavor to secure the greatest amount of blessing. But the uniform results have been that those exalted to place and influence and power have proved themselves unequal to the opportunities and temptations of the positions and have abused them selfishly. Whoever is acquainted with history realizes the truthfulness of all this. If some of us have hoped that the general education of the masses and the general enlightenment of the race would abolish sin and selfishness and demonstrate the truthfulness of the Proverb, "Honesty is the best policy," we are willing to confess that this has been a mistake. We perceive that the greater the wisdom and intelligence granted to a selfish mind and heart the greater will be its opportunities for evil and incitement thereto.

As a consequence the world is losing confidence in itself. All, whether politicians or judges, or governors, great or small, of one party or another, of one nationality or another—all are accused of being tarred with the same stick of selfishness. The Bible clearly indicates that this distrust is not without reason and that the great time of trouble coming upon every nation (Daniel xii, 1) will be the direct result of this loss of confidence. The Bible's description of the matter briefly summed up is: Every man's hand shall be against his neighbor (Zechariah viii, 10; xiv, 13). It will be after that great time of trouble is over, and humanity sickened humanity as respects itself and any hopes it might have had of bringing about a Millennium by its own efforts —that God will manifest his Kingdom in the top of the mountains—higher than all other kingdoms every way, and all people shall flow unto it. As it is written, "The desire of all peoples shall come" (Haggai ii, 7).

This is described in the verse following our text which says, Many nations people shall go and say, Come ye, let us go up to the mountain (kingdom) of the Lord, to the house (temple) of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways and we will walk in his paths, for out of Zion (the spiritual unseen Kingdom of Messiah) shall forth the Law and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem (the seat of earth's empire to be). And he shall judge among the nations (overruling and punishing justly), and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." All Christians agree that these words apply to the Messiah's Kingdom. They tell us clearly and distinctly of how the judgments of the Lord will be abroad in the earth, causing wars to cease and the knowledge of the Lord to fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep (Isaiah xi, 9).

We have already noted that this prophecy belongs to natural Israel and not to spiritual Israel. As the first verse declares, it concerns Judah and Jerusalem. By the time this prophecy will have begun to be fulfilled, spiritual Israel will be beyond the vale. It is in full harmony with this that we read in the fifth verse, "O house of Jacob, Come ye and let us walk in the light of the Lord." This is particularly by the time when this message to natural Israel should go forth. We understand the Scriptures to teach that during the next few years the Lord will have special dealings with Israel in connection with this call. He will point out to them the way of righteousness and the great privileges that are theirs as a people, because of Divine promises to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, etc. But only those who respond by turning to the light of God's Word to walk in it will be in the proper condition of heart and obedience to promptly get the blessing at the beginning of Messiah's reign Those most prompt to respond will get the greater blessing.

Verses 6-10 portray some of the reasons why God's favor has been withdrawn for a time from natural Israel—aside from the fact that his special favor was for the time to be given to Spiritual Israel. Then follows a description of the time of trouble, in which present institutions will succumb, to be followed by Messiah's empire. Let us read some of these verses and note their applicability to our day and the correspondence between these statements and very similar pronouncements in the Book of Revelation, applicable also to the time in which we are living. We will quote and paraphrase from verse 11 to the end of the chapter.

The lofty looks of man shall be humbled and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down; and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day. One of the greatest obstacles in the pathway of humanity hindering approach to truth and righteousness, is pride. The Almighty God is not sufficiently reverenced. The very learned men of all our colleges seem more and more to doubt that there is a God and that the affairs of earth are subject to any other regulations than those of chance, except as the learned can regulate them. The time of trouble when the various theories of men will be tried and found wanting will demonstrate most thoroughly that the wisdom from above is neglected in favor of earthly wisdom. The Lord says in another place, the wisdom of their wise men shall perish and the understanding of their prudent men shall disappear.

For the day of the Lord of Hosts shall be heavy upon every one that is proud and lofty, and upon every one that is lifted up, and he shall be brought low, and upon all the cedars of Lebanon that are high and lifted up (the ecclesiastical power) and upon all the oaks of Bashan (the politically strong); upon all the high mountains (the kingdoms of the world) and upon all the hills that are lifted up (the smaller princedoms); and upon every high tower and upon every fenced wall (representing human organizations for strength and protection) and upon all the ships of Tarshish (labor organizations) and upon all pleasant pictures and ideals of earthly ambition, the arm of the Lord will be heavy. The result will be that the loftiness shall be humbled and the haughtiness shall be made low and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day; and the idols shall he utterly abolished. God must be first under the new order of things No peace or blessing will otherwise result.

Those in distress and perplexity will in that time of trouble flee to the holes and the rocks and the caves of earth for fear. As Revelation (vi, 16) represents it, they will call to the rocks, "Fall on us and hide us from the face of him that sitteth upon the throne!" We understand this more literally than its context. It does not signify that people will be so foolish as to literally pray for rocks to fall upon them, when they could more easily destroy their lives in another way. The thought is the very contrary of this—that they desire protection, shelter, hiding, escape from the trouble of the coming day of the Lord. These shelters of the rocks and caves of the earth symbolically represent the attempt at protection of human organizations — insurance companies, secret societies, etc. But none of these will be able to protect from the trouble which is coming—which will be world-wide and involve every earthly thing and interest, religious and secular, financial and political.

This will take place when the glory of the Lord and his Majesty are manifested in connection with his standing up to assume command of the world and when "He will shake terribly the earth (society), that everything contrary to righteousness and holiness may be uprooted and overthrown." St. Paul pictures that same time of trouble and declares that the only thing that will not be shaken will be what ever is in harmony with God's Kingdom of righteousness (Heb. xii, 26-29).

His Stock In Trade.

Lady Knill, Lady Mayoress of London, who recently gave a banquet to the archbishops and bishops, is a woman of very religious and charitable sympathies. She is one of the three women in the world who possess the Order of the Holy Sepulchre, given by the Pope for work in the Roman Catholic diocese of Southwark, where she is known as "Queen of the Poor." In connection with her charitable work Lady Knill is a rather fond of telling the story of a man to whom she gave a pair of boots. Some days later she met the man again with his old ragged pair. "What have you done with the pair I gave you?" she asked of him. "Oh," replied the old rascal, unblushingly, "I left them off. These I am wearing are worth 10 shillings a day to me."—Tit-Bits

Protecting Birds.

Nearly every native bird in New Zealand will be absolutely protected by law this year. The animals protection act provides that 1910 and 1911 shall be years in which, may, at the discretion of the governor in council, be declared a close season for native game. The absence of birds life in New Zealand is already most noticeable. Between Nelson and Hokitika, hardly any bird life at all is to be met with. The imported wren, especially the stout and "cheeky" kind, have done their work of bird destruction only too well. In the region from Timaru to the south, however the kea and the pigeon are to be seen making bright the landscape with their presence.

Usury Extraordinary.

Moneylending is sometimes a profitable business, but not to the borrower. A Birmingham man, who has found it necessary to seek court protection, explains that he borrowed $40 four years ago, has repaid $160, and still owes $12.

Punished

Jones saw Tomkins coming towards him, and he noticed that his countenance looked as though it had been through a very bad time indeed.

"I say, old chap," he said with alarm, "Whatever is the matter with your face?"

"Well, replied Tomkins, "I was walking down the street yesterday, regarding a utter—foolish thing to do, of course—but I was punished for it. A workman coming the opposite way lurched up against me, hit me in the mouth with a pickaxe, and knocked a tooth out!"

"Oh! that was quite a dental operation, wasn't it?" commented Jones, who must have his little joke.

"Well, no! He said it was an exceedingly dental operation!"

"Oh, that's too thin!"

"Not exactly, it was tooth out!"

IN LIEU OF LANDS.

The Toronto News should have a warm spot in the heart gf every Westerner, because it has constantly kept before its readers the wrong done this province when we were deprived of our lands by the Autonomy deal of 1905. In reply to an article in the News, an Eastern exchange says :

"The Progressives, alias Conservatives, in Western Canada have adopted the provincial ownership of lands as one of the planks in the platform of the party. The wisdom of the policy has been raised in Saskatchewan and is being discussed in Alberta. The public generally regard the matter as a business proposition. The Conservatives attempt to appeal to local jealousies by making it appear that the prairie provinces are discriminated against by being deprived of control of the lands. But the average man is willing to take a chance on exact conditions and to look at the figures and find out whether Alberta has gained or lost on account of the policy of the Dominion in this respect." And again :—

"Alberta and Saskatchewan have received in lieu of lands since the provinces were inaugurated an average of $540,000 a year. In addition to this the province of Saskatchewan has a revenue of about $250,000 a year from its school lands, and Alberta should have a revenue of about that much."

The average man is looking into exact conditions and finding out for himself how Alberta has been robbed by the Dominion.

We have not received in lieu of lands $540,000 a year, as the writer states, out only $375,000.

We have not received in addition to this $250,000 from school lands, because it is not in the power of the present Dominion government to give or take because Sir John A. Macdonald, leader of the Conservative party away back in the seventies, set aside two sections of land in each township for educational purposes. These lands are ours, and could not be taken from us by the Liberal government because they are part of the statutes of Canada.

Therefore, the only lands we have were given us by a Conservative government. Now the Liberals are taking credit for Sir John's wise action.

If the two sections of land in each township set aside for educational purposes bring in a revenue to the province of $250,000, how much would the balance of the land, consisting of 34 sections, bring in ?

The Liberal leaders are blind leaders of the blind. Any child of ten going to school could conviet them out of their own mouth.

The people are looking at exact conditions. Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and British Columbia have control of their own lands ; they have incomes ranging from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 a year from their resources.

Alberta, the richest province in Canada, and one that could hide half a dozen European nations in its back townships and still have enough left, is deprived of its lands, minerals, timbers and other resources to feed the grafters and promofers at Ottawa.

Take our vast coal fields alone. The royalty received by the Dominion government this year on coal mines will pay them for the subsidy on all our lands.

Then take the vast coal deposits sold to companies by government promoters, who have secured this untold wealth for a song. Take our timber limits, which have been almost given away to friends of the government.

The Dominion government has realized more by selling our lands as pre-emptions than we receive in the way of a subsidy.

The people are looking into exact conditions. They see our great coal deposits valued at forty billions of dollars , handed over to the Dominion ; they see our tens of millions of acres of fertile soil also handed over to enrich the rest of the Dominion ; and they are beginning to think.

They see Ontario and Quebec given great tracts of land to the north that were as much Hudson Bay lands as our lands were, yet these provinces are given control of their lands and resources because they would not stand for anything else, while we are deprived of our heritage because we are weak and have a number of politicians who would sell their very souls for the spoils of office,

But the people are thinking and studying exact conditions and finding out whether Alberta has gained or lost, and some of these days the men who have sold this fair province for a paltry yearly remittance will meet with the deserts they deserve at the hands of an outraged people.

AN IMPROVEMENT ON SIFTON.

Toronto Saturday night, on October15th, alluded to the rumor that Mr. Oliver is to be driven from the Dominion Government to a seat on the Railway Commission—a vacant seat by the way which Sir Wilfrid Laurier says is to be filled by a farmer. The retirement or removal which the authors of the rumor are trying to engineer, Saturday Night says : "Is not one that will be "viewed with approval by anyone "who has studied Canadian politics "of late years. It is generally understood that if Hon. Frank Oliver "retires from the cabinet it will be "because he finds it more comfort"able to do so and that it will not "be a voluntary act on his part. "His great achievement is that of "having made the department of "the interior, against which every "sort of reproach was levelled a "few years ago, a clean department "He is the object of an intrigue "emanating from his home town of "Edmonton, by which a young poli"tician of no very savory reputation "for scrupulousness in public life "hopes to take his place. Even "should the Edmonton intriguers "succeed in driving Mr. Oliver to a "seat on the railway commission, "it does not follow that thay will "succeed in their ultimate aims. Sir "Wilfird Laurier, as one has re"marked on several occasions, is no "fool. There are three provinces "west of Lake Superior in addition "to Alberta which would no doubt "present candidates for the portfolio "of the interior. For the present it "is to be hoped that Mr. Oliver will "remain where he is. Those who "aim at driving him out are not "concerned for honest administra"tion so much as the hope of 'pick"ings' in the future."

Messrs. Greene, Smith, Dorrance, Hewson and Carswell took a flying trip to Lacombe last Sunday evening in Mr. Greene's automobile.

BLAME IT ON THE TORIES.

Retributive justice seems to be paying a visit to the Ontatio Tories who a few years ago objected to having the school question in Alberta settled once and for all in a way acceptable to the people who have to support the schools and demanded the question be left an open one about which rival parties and creeds could and no doubt would squabble and wrangle through coming generations.—Edmonton Bulletin.

The Bulletin acknowledges the school question is not settled in Alberta, and that it is a bone of contention to wrangle over.

But to blame the Conservative party for this state of affairs is the limit.

The autonomy measure was foisted on Alberta by the Laurier government and separate schools established or guaranteed by Sir Wilfrid and his followers.

The Conservative party was not even in Ontario at that time, and to blame the Tories for this state of affairs is adding insult to injury.

The Conservative party at that time fought for national schools, where all would have the same chance to receive a good education, for equal rights to all and favors to none, or possession of our lands and national resources, for one flag and a united people.

We were deprived of our lands, and had separate schools forced upon us by the Liberal machine, and now we are informed it was the wicked Tories that did it.

We will next be informed that the Conservative party is responsible for the loss of our lands and minerals and everything else, except the air we breathe.

Doctor Oliver, of Stettler, was a visitor in town a few days ago.

A delegate to the Manufacturers' Association convention spoke of the 40,000 organized farmers of Canada as a "hand full of grain growers." What would he call the 2,600 manufacturers represented at the convention at which he spoke ?

Dr. Clark, M.P., and Hon. Duncan Marshall will address a public meeting in the Betchton school house, near Innisfail, at 8 o'clock, on Friday, O.t. 28th. The meeting ic called by the Liberal association and the public generally are invited to attend to hear public questions, both Provincial and Dominion, discussed by the two members.

ALBERTA PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Good Attendance at Lethbridge.

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 20.—The convention of the Alberta and Eastern British Columbia Press Association opened this morning with an attendance of about thirty delegates, representative of all parts of this province and Eastern British Columbia.

Premier Scott of Saskatchewan, who was expected to be present, was unfortunatefy prevented by the death of his mother-in-law.

The President, W. A. Buchanan, M. P.P., opened the session with a short address, followed by the secretary's report, which showed the association in a far better condition than ever before. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year : President, W. A. Buchanan, re-elected ; first vice-president, F. W. Quayle, Claresholm ; second vice-president, M. R. Jennings, Edmonton ; third vice-president, F. .W Dean, Cranbrook ; secretary-treasurer, D. H. Elton, re-elected.

Committee—W. M. Davidson, Calgary ; J. H. Woods, Calgary ; F. W. Galbraith, Red Deer ; J. E. Pember, Macleod ; W. G. Koster, Nelson.

Calgary was selected as the next place of meeting of the association.

A resolution committee was named by the president to prepare resolutions, among which will be recommendation to the legislature for a new libel act, and requiring school bylaws to be printed in newspapers.

INTERESTING PAPERS READ.

At the afternoon session papers were read by J. E. Pember of Macleod on "Reliable and Simple System of Cost of Keeping Small Offices" ; F. W. Galbraith of Red Deer on "Relation of Local News-Deer on "Relation of Local Newspapers on Municipal Questions," and by T. W. Quayle, Claresholm, on "Value of Editorials in a Country Weekly." A discussion followed each address after which the members were driven around the city in rubber-neck motor cars.

In the evening there was a meeting of the editors of daily papers and another of the publishers of weekly papers, after which the visiting pressmen were banqueted by the Lethbridge board of trade.

CANADIAN CLIMATE A NATIONAL ASSET.

England Waking Up to the Fact that it is Not all a Land of Snows.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Following on Sir Wilfrid's eloquent eulogy of the Canadian climate at Red Deer, during his Western tour, which has received wide circulation in the press here, we have had a visit from Mr. R. F. Stupart, the director of Canada's splendid meterological service. In an interview with the writer, Mr Stupart said :

"The Canadian climate is not some thing we need be ashamed of, it is one of the assets of the country."

Mr. Stupart went into a variety of details which will be invaluable to those in England who are stimulating the emigration movement, but which are well known to Canadians. I will only quote what he said regarding the area which has been so prominently brought into notice by Earl Grey's tour, and the movement for the railway to Hudson's Bay.

"We established fully equipped stations last year in the valley of the McKenzie river from Northern Alberta right to the Arctic coast line. We are thus gradually extending the network of stations, and will know a good deal about the climate of that northern region very shortly. There is, however, every reason to suppose that grain will ripen in the valley of the McKenzie river, very nearly, if not quite, as far as the Arctic circle. That does not hold good as you come eastwards towards Hudson's Bay. The prevalence of eastern winds in the region of the 'barren lands' keeps the temperature rather low, and there is liable to be a great deal of rainy, drizzly weather. Westward, towards the Mackenzie river, the climate is quite fadorable for settlement, though, of course, very cold in winter, and I think that far north country is a region which will be found to be quite an important part of the Dominion."

ECKVILLE.

Don't forget the United Farmers' Association dance on Friday, the 28th, in the school house. Ladies are requested to bring refreshments. The monthly meeting of the association will be held the following day at 2 o'clock.

Everybody has gone railroading. There will not be so much fall plowing done this year as last, but those who have their land in shape will reap the benefit.

A. Eckford has just shipped in a few head of registered Holstein cows, with good records.

We hear that school will shortly be closed for the year, though it was the original intention of the trustees to run it far a longer period.

POPLAR RIDGE.

Rev. Barner occupied the pulpit last Sunday afternoon, taking as his subject "The King and his Kingdom."

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kirkland left yesterday for their homestead at Leslieville.

Friends will be glad to hear that Miss Linda Bone is able to sit up, after spending three weeks with rheumatic fever.

The C.N.R. grading gang have reached Poplar Ridge, and are camping on E. .B Calis' quarter section. The railroad will run about one and a half mile from the correction line.

FALLON ON SCHOOLS.

Opposed to the Bi-lingual System in Vogue in his diocese—A Strong letter from Famous Irish Catholic Bishop.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Bishop Fallon Roman Catholic Bishop of London, issued a statement to-day from Goderich in reply to those who have raised a cry against him because of his attitude to bi-lingual schools in Ontario. The Bishop admits that his position was stated with exactitude in the letter the Hon. W. J. Hanna wrote to Dr. Payne, giving a summary of the conversation he had with Bishop Fallon.

He sees no reason, he says, why a subject of such surpassing importance as the education of children should be discussed with bated bresth. The bi-lingual system he scores in the follow ing words: "The alleged bi-lingual system as it prevails in certain pots of the province of Ontario is absolutely futile as concerning the teaching of either English or French and utterly hostile to the best interests of the children, both English and French. "

Then he quotes figures to show nine parishes of his diocese with separate schools and upwards of 2,000 children on the rolls, ten pupils in all passed the entrance last summer. The public schools in the district under the bi-lingual system are even worse, for in these nine parishes they got only seven through the entrance examination.

APPALLING STATE OF AFFAIRS

"Every year since I came here I have offered a gold medal to the child who woud pass the entrance examination. Not one has ever passed. Another pastor made an equally appalling statement to me regarding the almost illiteracy If his children. Adjacent to him is is still another district in which for the past 25 years not a single child has ever been able to obtain the entrance certificate. Now the fault is not with the children, or with the teachers, it is with the system, and it is against the system and the threatening extension of it that I protest. I base my protest on the rights of children to education that will give them a standing in the com munity in which they are to live and that will open up to them the avenues of success.

As things stand now these children will either remain where thay are and then they will continue to be as they are, or they will move to Quebec to be classed to be classed as renegades because they do not know French, or they will go elsewhere to be hewers of wood or drawers of water because they do not know English. Essex stands lowest in education amongst the nine countries that constitute the diocese of London; everthing flourishes there except education. The land is heavy with rich harvest, choice fruits and a generation of uneducated children. One would almost be inclined to believe in the existence of a well contrived conspiracy among the enemies of the French Canadian people to keep them in a position of self-perpetuating intellectual inferiority.

Attacked by Bourassa Press.

"I want," the Bishop added, "the department of education to see that its servants live up to its own regulations, nothing more, and I object to selfish politicians controlling the appointment of school inspectors." Further scathing statements are made regarding the Bourassa press. "I am quite prepared also for the frenzied outpourings of Le Devoir, La Croix La Vetrite, La Nationaliste, La Nouvelle France and La Revue. Long before my return to the province of Ontario, these imminent Catholic journals had begun the business of Bishop baiting. I could cover a town lot with attacks from their columns on Bishops Archbishops and even Papal delegates. I have sometimes suspected that they were secretly subsidized by the grand orient, or by the Emancipation lodge of Montreal. So their hostility I regard as a badge of distinction, while their approval would make me doubt the rectitude of my motives and the honesty of my judgment.

"This whole question is not a con test between English-speaking and French-speaking Catholics. It is a matter of great public moment. On the one side of the discussion are a certain number of French-Canadians led by noisy agitators; on the side are also French-Canadians of no small number, together with the rest of the population of the province of Ontario without distinction of creed or nationality. And let me hazard the prophesy that when this second division awakens to the gravity of the situation, it will make short work of the alleged bi-lingual school system, which teaches neither English or French, encourages incompetency, gives a prize to hypocrisy and breeds indignation."

Diocesan Billingsgate.

His lordship continues: "Is it any wonder that I should raise my voice on behalf of all the children who live in what might be called the Billingsgate belt of my diocese, and it is not monstrous that for so doing I should be charged with hostility to the French language, and to the interests of the French-Canadian people? In the schools that are inflicted on these children, neither English or French is properly taugnt or decently spoken. The regulations of the ed ucation department are in ,many instances utterly discregarded and because of the conditions that obtain children are 'either not sent to school at all or are withdrawn in the face of the difficulties.

During my present confirmation tour, the French-Canadian pastor of a French-Canadian parish in Essex county said to me in the presence of witnesses: 'Half the boys whom you confirmed this morning (they ranged from eleven to fifteen years of age) can neither read nor write.'"

Reduction in The Duty.

On Agricultural Implements Strongly Favored by F. W. G. Haultain.

Recently while in Toronto, Mr. Haultain discussed issues effecting the West. In the following interview with The News he stated his position on the duty on agricultural implements, Hudson's Bay Railway and elevators

"In general it seems to me that before any question of reciprocity is broached, we should try and bring the tariffs of the two countries nearer together. When that time comes, we can then talk of reciprocity."

This statement was made to The News today by Mr. F.W.G. Haultain, the former premier of the North-west Territories, and now leader of the Opposition in the Saskatchewan Legislature.

While averse to reciprocity negotiations under present conditions, Mr. Haultain strongly favors a reduction of the duty on agricultural implements.

A Live Question

"This is a very live question in the West regardless of politics. While the average man naturally wishes the implements to be free, I should say speaking personally, that a considerable reduction would satisfy us. The more it is reduced, of course, the more it would please us. I could not say that we would demand an absolute sweeping away of the tariff."

In regard to the Hudson Bay Railway Mr. Haultain said that the general opinion of the West was in favor of the road being not only built and owned, but operated by the Government.

Government Owned Elevators.

The chief question that would come before the Legislature at the December session would probably be the advisability of Gavernment owned elevators. He was strongly in favor of the provinces owning the inland ones and the Federal Government the terminal elevators.

A CASE OF COLD FEET.

(New York Sun.)

A divorce has been granted to a lady in Logansport, Ind., for the historic cause of "cold feet." That is, the judge said her husband showed unbearable cruelty in a statutory sense because he wouldn't let his wife warm her feet upon his back, and had refused to kiss her for three years. All of which recalls the poem, by a student of Swinburne, in which occur the lines addeessed to a cold-hearted bride:

There, take the blanket, take the sheet,
That's right—be mean!
But do not touch me with your feet
Of ice, Frostine!

RED DEER CHEESE FACTORY

The Trimble Creamery installed a cheese plant in connection with the butter plant this past season. The new industry proved very successful in regard to quality anh quantity receiving 308,000 lbs. of milk, which made 30,890 lbs. of cheese. Milk was supplied by twenty patrons, an average of 15,400 to a patron. The average test for the season being 3.6 per cent., giving 11.088lbs. of fat, netting the patron 27.7 cents per pound for fat through the summer months, when only as a rule the creameries pay 22 cents. When supplying milk to a cheese factory you have less labor, more ready money, and as a rule more cows can be kept, and no separating to do through the warm weather, etc. This is the Eastern method throughout, and this country can produce a cheese equal to Ontario cheese. If we manufacturers of cheese would watch the development of acid from time milk is received until the curd is in the press. Trimble creamery put out a cheese this summer equal to any cheese that was made in the East, but much credit goes to the patrons, I must admit, in the condition milk was delivered, as a rule, clean and sweet, which accounts for the company receiving so many prizes at the different fairs, namely: Calgary, 1st with a championship; Brandon, 1st and 2nd; Vancouver, 2 firsts; Edmonton, 2 firsts; Victoria, 1st; New Westminster, 1st; and Winnipeg, 3rd. Sorry to say our cheeses going to Winnipeg got heated in transportation. I understand the cheese dealers throughout the west have the idea Alberta cannot produce a cheese in quality to suit the consumer, as the Ontario cheese. If the people all knew good cheese when they tried it, they would ask for Red Deer cheese. Anyway, 70 per cent. of the Ontario cheese shipped west is a cheese that can't stand up to inspection for foreign export. I have been through the largest cheese houses in Montreal, and have seen all kinds of cheese. I have good faith in seeing Alberta cheese industry grow to supply sufficient cheese to fill the demand, because Alberta should make a good country for cheese; and milk can be produced so economical, more so than in the east; and the dealers should keep Alberta cheese before the people, and help the industry ahead. Let us do away with Ontario cheese. I was going to say Ontario acid cut cheese.

Thanking you in advance, Mr. Editor, for the valuable space this article contains in your very interesting paper.

"What I don't understand," contend ed Kirkwood, "is how you convinced Calendar that he couldn't get revenge by pressing his charge against Miss Calendar—Dorothy."

"Oh-h!" Mr. Brentwick elevated his fine white eyebrows and sat up brisk ly. "My dear boy, that was the most delectable dish on the entire menu I have been reserving it. I don't mind owning, that I might better enjoy the full relish of it. I may answer you best, perhaps, by asking you to scan what I offered to the fat scoundrel's respectful consideration, my dear sir."

He leveled a forefinger at the card.

Kirkwood glanced at it, scowled, and looked up with a puzzled frown.

"Ginger" Beaumont, the Chicago National's pinch hitter, is certainly the season's Colonel Pinch. He has won many a game for Chance's team when he has been sent in to break it up or clinch it for the Cubs.

Harvard plans to engage Fred Tenney as professional baseball coach next year. The position, it is said, will be worth as much as $3,000 a year to the former Giant star. Besides, Tenney in his spare moments would be provided with remunerative work.

"I," laconically assented the elder man.

Impulsively Kirkwood leaned across the table. "Dorothy," he said tenderly and when the girl's happy eyes met his quietly drew her attention to the card.

Then he rose hastily and went over to stand by the window, staring mistily into the blank face of night beyond its unseen panes.

Behind him there was a confusion of little noises—the sound of a chair pushed hurriedly aside, a rustle of skirts, a happy sob or two, low voices intermingling—lights. Out of it finally came the father's accents.

"There, there, my dear, my dearest dear!" protested the old gentleman. "Positively I don't deserve a tithe of this. I"— The young old voice quavered and broke in a happy laugh. "You must understand," he continued more soberly, "that no consideration of any sort is due me. When I married I was too old for your mother, child. We both knew it, both believed it would never matter. But it did. By her wish I went back to America. We were to see what separation would do to heal the wounds dissension had caused. It was a very foolish experiment. Your mother died before I could return."

There fell a silence, again broken by the father. "After that I was in no haste to return. But some years ago I came to London to live. I communicated with the old colonel, asking permission to see you. It was refused in a manner which precluded the subject being reopened by me. I was informed that if I persisted in attempting to see you you would be disinherited. He was very angry with me—justly, I admit. One must grow old before one can see how unforgivably one was wrong in youth. So I settled down to a quiet old age, determined not to disturb you in your happiness. Ah—Kirkwood?"

The old gentleman was standing, his arm around his daughter's shoulders, when Kirkwood turned.

"Come here, Philip. I'm explaining to Dorothy, but you should hear. The evening I called on you, dear boy, at the Pless, returning home I received a message from my solicitors, whom I had instructed to keep an eye on Dorothy's welfare. They informed me that she had disappeared. Naturally I canceled my plans to go to Munich and stayed, employing detectives. One of the first things they discovered was that Dorothy had run off with an elderly person calling himself George Burgoyne Calendar, the name I had discarded when I found that to acknowledge me would imperil my daughter's fortune. The investigations went deeper. Charles, let us continue to call him, had been to see me only this afternoon to inform me of the plot they had discovered. This Hallam woman and her son—it seems that they were legitimately in the line of inheritance, Dorothy out of the way. But the woman was—ah—a bad lot. Somehow she got into communication with this fat rogue, and together they plotted it out. Charles doesn't believe that the Hallam woman expected to enjoy the Burgoyne estates for very many days. Her plan was to step in when Dorothy stepped out, gather up what she could, realize on it and decamp. That is why there was so much excitement about the jewels—naturally the most valuable item on her list, the most easy to convert into cash. The man Mulready we do not place. He seems to have been a shady character the fat rogue picked up somewhere. The latter's ordinary line of business was diamond smuggling, though he would condescend to almost anything in order to turn a dishonest penny.

"That seems to exhaust the subject. Has one word more, Dorothy. I am old enough and have suffered enough to know the wisdom of seizing one's happiness when one may. My dear, a little while ago you did a very brave deed. Under fire you said a most courageous, womanly, creditable thing. And Philip's rejoinder was only second in nobility to yours. I do hope to goodness that you two blessed youngsters won't let any middle period scruples stand between yourselves and—the prize of romance, your inalienable inheritance!"

Abruptly Brentwick, who was no longer Brentwick, but the actual Calendar, released the girl from his embrace and hopped nimbly toward the door. "Really, I must see about that petrol!" he cried. "While it's perfectly true that Charles lied about its running out, we must be getting on. I'll call you when we're ready to start."

And the door crashed to behind him.

Between them was the table. Beyond it the girl stood with head erect, dim tears glimmering on the lashes of those eyes with which she met Philip's steady gaze so fearlessly.

Singing about them, the silence deepened. Fascinated, though his heart was faint with longing, Kirkwood faltered on the threshold of his kingdom.

"Dorothy! You did mean it, dear?"

She laughed a little, low, sobbing laugh that had its source deep in the hidden sanctuary of her heart of a child.

"I meant it, my dearest. If you'll have a girl so bold and forward, who can't wait till she's asked, but throws herself into the arms of the man she loves—Philip, I meant it, every word!"

And as he went to her swiftly, round the table, she turned to meet him, arms uplifted, her scarlet lips a-tremble, the brown and bewitching lashes droping over her wondrously lighted eyes.

Among the late Bishop Foss's anecdotes about prayer there was one concerning a very original Norristown preacher.

This preacher in the course of a long prayer one Sunday night, recounted the many misfortunes and evils that had befallen him in the course of his long life. Then, sighing heavily, he prayed:—

"Thou hast tried me with affliction, with bereavement, and with sorrow of many kinds. If thou art obliged to try me again, Lord, try me with the burden of wealth."

A gentleman living in the country once kept a dog which showed a too pronounced tendency to embed its teeth into other people's property—personal or otherwise—and therefore when he saw his next door neighbor walking up the drive one morning he had a shrewd inkling his pet terrier must have been misbehaving himself, for on ordinary occasions he and his neighbor were not on speaking terms.

"I have called to see you about your dog," said the neighbor on being shown into the dining-room; "he has bitten my mother-in-law severely in the leg."

"Very sorry, I'm sure," replied the dog's owner; "but I really can't see how I'm to blame—you'd better sue me."

"Sue you? What on earth for?" said the visitor, hurriedly. "I want to buy your dog."

Shopkeeper (to commercial traveler)—"Can't give you an order. Quite over-stocked."

Traveller—"Let me at least show you my samples."

Shopkeeper—"Spare yourself the trouble. I can't look at them."

Traveller—"Then will you allow me to look at them myself? It is three weeks since I have even seen them."

"Doctor," said the convalescent, smiling weakly, "you may send in your bill any day now."

"Tut, tut!" replied the M.D., silencing his patient with a wave of his hand. "You're not strong enough yet."

LINLEY SAMBOURNE.

The Cartoonist, Was Last Link With Victorian Punch.

"By death or retirement Punch has lost one by one the heroes of pen and pencil that made him a power in the land," writes The Daily News. "Three or four of the great Punch artists have left places never to be filled; and now Linley Sambourne, who sat with them so many years at the famous table is gone. He was the last of his generation, and with the disappearance of his work the last link with Victorian Punch is broken. One takes down one of the thumbed volumes and turns the leaves. What a great thing it was! How rich! How supremely representative of the spirit of its time!"

Here is the story of how he came to join Punch, as told by Mr. B. B. Morris "He was apprenticed to the firm of John Penn and Son, of Greenwich, the eminent marine engineers. One day, forgetting his work, he was engaged in drawing a caricature of Mr. Penn, who, to Mr. Sambourne's astonishment, happened to look in and saw what he was about. Instead of being angry and giving Mr. Sambourne "the sack," to use his own words, Mr. Penn said, 'Sambourne, you ought to be on Punch.' When Sambourne 'got his wind,' as he said, he replied, 'Yes, sir, but how am I to get there?' Mr. Penn said, 'I will give you a letter of introduction to my old friend Mark Lemon, the editor.'

"He did so, and with this letter, to settle the matter, he sent the caricature of himself. As all the world knows, Sambourne was engaged by Mark Lemon, and he had a hearty laugh over the idea of his caricaturing his master, and then bringing the sketch with a letter of introduction from the victim. Mr. Sambourne never forgot Mr. Penn's kindness and generosity."

Mr. Sambourne once said to The Westminster Gazette:—

"It does irritate me when people say 'I dare say you knock off your sketches very quickly.' I do nothing of the kind. Often I spend hours investigating a point before I begin to draw, in order that some incidental fact may be accurate."

For some time Mr. Sambourne went twice a week to the Zoo to make studies of the animals, and that is why his drawings of lions and elephants are the delight of students of animal life. He made a picture of a lion yawning once, and people said, "How very good! true to nature!" They were right—it had meant hours of close study, however, and waiting for the exact moment when the lion at the Zoo "obliged" by yawning.

"How very few artists," said Mr. Sambourne, on one occasions, "could draw at once, without seeing it, a policeman's helmet." "Impressionism is often the cover for idleness," he added. "And I find few young artists who will take trouble over details."

"Wherever he has to picture the handling of a gun, the hauling of a sail, the casting of a line, or any other of the thousand and one quick instinctive actions which mark the skill of the sportsman, Sambourne shows," says The Manchester Guardian, "not merely accuracy but that quintessence of accuracy which makes all the difference to our delight in the thing portrayed, and which indicated in his case that expert knowledge which can only be acquired at first hand."

Islamism In Africa.

Mahometanism appears to be spreading to a remarkable degree in Nyasaland. Sir Alfred Sharpe, the Governor of the protectorate, states that twenty years ago, when he first knew the country, Mahometanism was almost nonexistent except at one or two spots where it had been brought in by the Arabs. "Since then," he says, "it has spread greatly, particularly during the last eight or ten years. The Yaos are the tribe who have taken to Moslem teaching mostly, and in almost every Yao village are a mosque and a Moslem teacher. On the other hand, among the tribes to the west of Lake Nyasa, there is hardly any Mahometanism. Here the Scotch missionaries have a strong hold on the people, who have taken up Christianity with great enthusiasm."

Death In a London Hotel.

Sometimes it happens that some one staying in a fashionable London hotel dies. Now, in hotels the management is not fond of deaths, so it comes to pass that the room in which the dead thing lies is locked, and nobody in the hotel save the staff, who know everything, is aware that the sable wings of death, passing, have shed a plume. When relatives arrive they are hurried upstairs lest their red eyes trouble the living guests. Late, very late, at night, when the most belated guest slumbers peacefully, the corpse is taken secretly out of the hotel by stealthy-footed men who have crept up the stairs. In the morning the empty room, cleanly swept and garnished is, with luck, let to some one else.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Glimpse of Tennyson.

Apprehension of being mobbed by the "profane vulgar" amounted almost to monomania with the poet Tennyson. Many stories are told in illustration of this weakness of his. One of the best of them will bear repetition. Lord Tennyson was taking a country walk with a friend when a fellow-creature was espied in the distance. "We must turn back," said the poet. "That fellow means to worry us." His companion persuaded him, however, to continue on their path. They caught up the enemy and passed him. He took no notice of them whatever. "What an extraordinary thing!" cried the irate poet. "The fellow seems to have no idea who I am!"

Londen's Big Bell.

"Big Ben," the bell in Westminster clock tower, London, is known the world over, but it is incorrectly named. Sir Benjamin Hall, the first commissioner of works, during whose tenure of office the clock was erected, had far less to do with it than Lord Grimthorpe, who designed it and was the moving spirit in its erection. In justice to him it should be known as "Old Grim."

Lawyer—What is your gross income?

Witness—I have none. My income is net. I'm in the fish business.

"You are Mr. Quezeen, the husband of the celebrated lectures on cookery, are you not?"

"Yes, sir," replied the dejected, hollow-eyed man. "I am the man she tries her new dishes on."

"Can you support her in the style to which she is accustomed?"

"I can do that all right. But can I support her in the style she expects."—Pittsburg Post.

Hope for the Chronic Dyspeptic.—

Through lack of consideration of the body's needs many persons allow disorders of the digestive apparatus to endure until they become chronic, filling days and nights with suffering. To these a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended as a sure and speedy way to regain health. These pills are specially compounded to combat dyspepsia and the many ills that follow in its train and they are successful always.

A little boy, one day at dinner, gazed at his father's face a long while, and then said:—

"Papa, what makes your nose so dreadful red?"

"The east wind, of course," the father answered, with gruff haste. "Pass that Jug of beer, and don't talk so much."

Then, from the other end of the table, the boy's mother said, sweetly:—

"Yes, Tommy, pass your father the east wind, and be careful not to spill any on the table cloth."

It is in Demand.—So great is the demand for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that a large factory is kept continually busy making and bottling it. To be in demand shows popular appreciation of this preparation, which stands at the head of proprietary compounds as the leading Oil in the market, and it is generally admitted that it is deserving of the lead.

"How do you sell your music" asked the prospective customer.

"It depends on the kind you want," replied the smart clerk. "We sell piano music by the pound and organ music by the choir."

The Bright Side

"What do you think of the two candidates?" asked one elector of another.

"What do I think of them?" was the reply.

"Well, when I look at them I'm thankful only one of them can get in."

PITCOX

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw and family made a pleasant call on their neighbor, Mr. Frids, last Sunday.

Mr. Tyner, our school teacher, from the Blue Bell district, accompanied them.

Mr. Card is doing some threshing in this vicinity. He threshed for Mr. Edgar and son last week, and they had afine crop of oats, but the barley was not as good as in former years.

Our school at Blue Bell is progressing nicely under the management, of Mr. Tyner of Red Deer.

Stanley Frid returned home a few days ago from Fernie, B.C., where he has been firing a logging engine.

We are pleased to learn that the A.C.R. is putting in a camp close to our burg, and will put a big crew of teams and men to work on their new line of railway which goes through here. We understand they work on this road all winter, and we hope to see the trains running in here early next summer.

P. B. Warren, of Red Deer, who has been lumber grader at the Great West mill, has moved out on his farm, 2½ miles south of our town, and will improve it as fast as possible. He has a fine quarter section and intends to stock it with a good herd of dairy cows in the spring.

E. A. Kirk made a business trip to Red Deer recently.

Mr. Wm. Joyce is making the sawdust and shavings fly now in his mill.

Everybody is highly pleased to see the Alberta Central railway coming this way so fast.

Farmers are busy with their fall plowing and threshing.

Health in general is good, as we have the best water in Alberta and lots of good beef.

THE LANDS.

(The West, Regina)

At Kelliher recently Provincial Secretary Calder made a valiant effort to explain away several bad features, both of the land terms of the Autonomy bargain, and of the provincial finances generally. Driven by the irresistible conclusions of cold facts to a realization that in the face of the demands now being made upon the Government for various public services, the land subsidy received from the Dominion is very inadequate. Mr. Calder endeavored to improve the showing by including, as he did at Rosetown, earlier in the year, the returns from school lands trust fund. As is well known the fund has nothing whatever to do with the land subsidy received in lieu of the lands, and was not mentioned by members of the Government until this year when, in order to improve their defence, they grasped at this straw.

Referring to the land subsidy, Mr. Calder said at Kelliher: "Then again we must not forget the fact that the Province now owns one-eighteenth of all its, land, or two sections in each township, which were set aside away back in the early 70's as an endowment for educational purposes." The Province does not own one-eighteenth of its land area and never did. What Parliament did was to set aside two sections in each township for school purposes. These lands were to be sold at public auction, the receipts to be invested in Dominion bonds the revenue from which to be paid to the Provinces. This arrangement would have held good whether the Province had received control of the public lands or not. Mr. Calder considers this arrangement a very fortunate one for the Province; that is, that the Province should receive for school purposes the revenue from one-eighteenth of the land of the land of the Province. Would it not have been much better had the Province received the revenue from all the public lands in the Province, instead of handing it over to Ottawa as is done at present? It is also to be remembered that the school lands bring the highest obtainable price in the open market. The revenue which the Province now receives in lieu of all the public lands is only one per cent., based on a valuation of $1.50 per acre.

At Kelliher Mr. Calder used the old and long-exploded argument that if the Province had received the public lands it would have had to sell them for revenue purposes. The truth is that there would have been no necessity for doing so. Even had such been done it would have been no more than the Dominion Government has done with the pre-emptions During the last five years Saskatchewan has received in land subsidies $2,243,750. Now, if instead of receiving these land subsidies in lieu of the land revenues, the claim made by Mr. Haultain of $1 per acre for the lands granted away to railway companies had been admitted—and which Mr. Scott said was perfectly just—the province should have received from this sourse alone $600,000 a year. In five years it would have received $3,000,000, or nearly $700,000 more than it has received in lieu of all the lands. Since 1908 the Dominion Government has sold to settlers in the Province of Saskatchewan alone nearly 10,000,000 worth of land at $3 an acre, on which it collects 5 per cent. interest. In other words, the Dominion Government will receive this year $500,000 in interest alone on these sales. Is that not selling the lands for revenue? But who gets the revenue? The Dominion Government.

Mr. Calder's Kelliher speech is also remarkable for the amazing comparisons he makes between Saskatchewan and Ontario in the revenue which they derive from land sources. He places Ontario's revenue from the lands, forests and mines for ten months during 1909 at $2,028,224, and by making reductions, aggregating $669,632 he figures out Ontario's net revenue from these sources at $1,358,592. Among these deductions he includes—according to the Regina Leader report—$102,124 for "civil government." Now if he is to make such deduction from Ottawa's revenue, he must also make them from Saskatchewan's revenue; in other words, as Saskatchewan's expenditure last year on "civil government" was $208,273, he must deduct that from her land subsidy. Against this ten months' revenue for Ontario he places the total twelve months' for Saskatchewan derived from both school lands and land subsidy, and works out a per capita revenue for the former of 52 cents, and for the latter of $1.36. What an amazing comparison in or der to make out a case!

One who reads Mr. Calder's reasoning at Kelliher cannot help but think that he presumed upon the intelligence of his audience. For instance he went on to say that when Saskatchewan's population was 1,200,000 its revenue from the lands would be about $2,000,000 or $1.65 per capita, against Ontario's present net return of 62 cents per capita from the same sources. He did not however, tell his audience that the land subsidy paid Saskatchewan would never exceed $1,125,000, the amount paid when population reaches 1,200,000. In other words, the land subsidy paid by the Dominion Government, exclusive of the proceeds from the school lands trust, will never exceed $1,125,000. Now Ontario stands in this position, that it can increase its revenue from the public resources whenever it cares to do so. As a matter of fact the Ontario Legislature put on an extra tax lately, which is expected to bring in over $300,000 per annum; while Quebec also recently imposed a tax on the same resources which is expected to net $700,000 annually. But Saskatchewan can never do so, it matters not how valuable the resources within its territory may prove to be. All Saskatchewan's increase in value is taken by Ottawa.

First Forecast of American Elections.

Election forecasts are even more unworthy of serious consideration than the meteorological prognostications of the patent medicine almanacs, as a rule; but they are much more interesting, and probably have a much greater effect on the subsequent elections than the probabilities have on the weather. The New York Herald has the reputation in the United States for being about as good a guesser as another, and its regular surveys of the political situation are usually widely quoted. The Herald has issued the first of its calculations as to the fate of the two great political parties in the United States in the approaching battle for control of the House of Representatives; and the figures it compiles and the arguments used can give little comfort to the Republican party. The signs point to a Democratic victory. As far as the Herald is concerned the chief blame for the approaching defeat of his party will rest upon Mr. Roosevelt.

ON THE DEFENSIVE.

There are 391 Congressional districts in the United States, 217 of them being now held by Republicans and 174 by Democrats. It is clear, therefore, that the Democrats will not have to make very sensational gains to secure control of the House. If they win 25 seats they will have turned the Republicans out. The Herald's information is that 141 seats are securely Democratic for the next election, and 132 safely Republican, leaving 118 seats in doubt. The doubtful seats are those in which the normal majorities for either side are not more than 5,000. That even this is not a safe figure is indicated by a recent election. In the 52nd New York district, James E. Havens, Democrat, succeeded the late James B. Perkins, a Republican who ordinarily won by 10,000. A noteworthy fact is that of the 118 doubtful constituencies 82 are held by Republicans and only 36 by the Democrats. This means that the Republicans will be put upon the defensive. Even if they win every doubtful seat now held by one of their own party they will only be be where they are at present. That there is any prospect of their making gains in Democratic territory is not seriously considered.

WHERE DANGER THREATENS

In New York state, where there are 37 Congressional districts, the Republicans now hold 25. Thirteen of these seats are in danger, while the Democrats are said to be sure in the 12 seats they hold. Even in hide-bound Pennsylvania, where the Republicans hold 27 out of 32 seatsy, only 11 of these are said to be safe. In Indiana the boot appears to be on the other foot, for nine of the Democrat's eleven seats are said to be within the danger zone. Nine of the 19 Republican seats in Illinois are doubtful, and Illinois is expected to be one of the great battle grounds of the campaign. Five out of 13 Republican seats in Ohio are threatened, and two of eight in Kansas. It is important to remember that calculations make no differences between Republican regulars and insurgents, although for most political purposes it would be as reasonable to classify a man like of Murdoch, of Kansas, with the Democrats as with his own party. We may be sure that Democratic leaders think much more kindly of him than Republican chieftains.

REPUBLICANS RALLY

The Herald thinks that the plain inference from its figures is that the Republican party is about to undergo one ofthe worst defeats in its history. It is of opinion, however, that it is recovering from the state of panic and demoralization that it has been in for the past few months. It has got over the shock it received when Roosevelt made his sally from Oyster Bay, and toured the country, striking terror to the heart of the conservative members of his party. Incidentally, it may be noted that in some quarters Roosevelt is denounced for his general approval of the Taft policies, and in others for his supposed hostiliey to the administration. The Herald, which likes Mr. Taft and dislikes Mr. Roosevelt, classifies him as an opponent to a Taft renomination and as an aspirant on his own behalf. That he will be a strength to his party the paper does not believe, an opinion, it must be said, which is peculiar to the Herald, most other supposedly disinterested observers believing that Roosevelt is Republicanism's only hope.

STORIES AT LESS THAN A CENT APIECE.

In the fifty-two issues of a year's volume The Youth's Companion prints fully two hundred abd fifty stories. The subscription price of the paper to Canada is but $2.00, so that the stories cost less than a cent apiece, without reckoning in all the rest of the contents—anecdotes, humorous sketches, the doctor's weekly article, papers on popular topics by famous men and women.

Although the two hundred and fifty stories cost so little, they are not cheap stories. In variety of scene, diversity of incident, skill and truth in character-depicting, they cannot be excelled.

The announcement for 1911, beautifully illustrated, giving more detailed particulars of these stories and other new features which greatly enlarge the paper, will be sent to any address in Canada free with sample copies of current issues.

DIATOMITE.

Infusorial Earth Formed by Bodies of Minute Shellfish.

Diatoms are tiny creatures that multiply very rapidly until they form a scum upon the surface of the water in many parts of the world. They are rarely more than one-hundredth part of an inch in diameter and often considerably less. Their shells are composed of silica, and these shells are well known to the microscopist on account of their great beauty.

When the little creatures die the shells sink to the bottom of the stream or pond, where they form a kind of siliceous mud, and there are vast deposits of this material in various parts of the earth. This infusorial earth, as it is called, has been christened diatomite, and it is being used for a variety of purposes under the name kieselguhr. It is employed as a vehicle or absorbent for nitroglycerin, and the resultant paste is dynamite. Diatomite is an excellent nonconductor of heat, and in this capacity it is used for filling the hollow interstices in the walls of safes, as a lining for stoves and furnaces and as a covering for steam pipes and boilers. For such purposes as these it has an advantage over asbestos in the matter of price and also of weight.

It can be made into bricks or slabs by the addition of a small quantity of lime or clay, and these bricks can be raised to a white heat without showing any signs of fusion.

Diatomite occurs in great quantities in the United States, in Prussia, in parts of Scotland, in Canada and to a lesser degree in Western Australia and New Zealand.

BOTH WERE STARTLED.

An Astonished Woman and a Still More Astonished Leopard.

Kuis is a district in the Himalayas consisting of a chain of the most lovely valleys conceivable, with this drawback, among others, that each hill path that runs by the inhabitants' huts more often than not contains a lurking leopard. One day a worthy Kulu house wife came out from her cooking and, standing on the edge of rock, emptied a pan of boiling water into the rank herbage growing below. It fell splash on the back of a sleeping leopard, who jumped perpendicularly into the air as high as the roof of the hut.

What might have happened next who can say? But the astonished woman dropped the pan with a clang on the rock, and the leopard took one leap downhill. The pan followed, and the leopard's downward leaps became longer and swifter as the pan bounded after it from rock to rock. When last seen that leopard and pan acheived a leap of about 350 feet to the very bottom of the ravine, thousands of feet below, and the pan whirled about 500 feet over it on to the opposite side.

The leopard would have eaten the old woman with pleasure, but a pan, the contents of which first scalded half the side off him and then bounded, clanging in his wake, from the top of the Himalayas to the plains below was something he could not face.

Money Boxes.

Money boxes to encourage thrift among the penny wise are ancient and popular institutions. A dictionary of 1585 mentions "money boxe of potter's clay wherein boys put their money to keepe," and doubtless the thrifty child of all ages had his money box of some sort or another. Of late years tin has been the favorite material, but the writer has recollections of a elaborate earthenware thatched cottage, into which the money was dropped through a slit in the roof, which only infinite patience could hit again when it came to wriggling the money out. As a tock up investment that cottage was unequaled.—Glasgow Herald.

Watching the Head Hunters.

In the Kongo one of the most industrious peoples are the Baterela. In gathering rubber they go into the forests inhabited by the Baukuru head hunting cannibals. While the men are in the forest the camp is guarded by a man who surveys the surroundings from a scaffold made of a drummer. When the Baukuru are seen to approach the drummer beats the alarm and all the men return to the camp to fight. The weapons used are the spear, shield, bow and arrow. This sentinel earns in the neighborhood of $100 of our money a year, which enables him to buy a wife.

The Eye-Opener in its last issue says: Considerable excitement has been caused in Alberta by the rumor that the Great and Only Steve Wilson and the Modern Demosthenese, John T. Moore, both of Red Deer, are about to start a new party, to be known as the Sorehead party and composed exclusively of Grits who have been chucked into the deiscard. The platform of the new party will be built of lumber obtained from Cushing's mill and it is whispered that overtures have already been made to old Cush himself to join this crafty bumpowder plot, on the understanding that if successful in achieving power within the present century the premiership of the province will be handed over to him by way of payment for the lumber. Homes for Millions.

That out 21,000,000 acres explored in the northern part of Saskatchewan and Alberta, about 10,000,000 acres are available for settlement once access is secured, is the gist of a report which has been issued by the northwest exploration division of the department of the interior, covering its work for the last year.

The district covered by the report is that part of Saskatchewan and Alberta north of the surveyed area and bounded by Green Lake, Beaver river, and the connecting waters to Portage la Loche, then down the Clearwater river to the Athabasca river, and up the latter to the northern limit of the surveyed area.

The exploration work was done by a party of sevsn men, under the leadership of F. J. P. Crean, C.E. It is believed that 10,000,000 acres is a conservative estimate of the land available for settlement in its present state. The greater portion of the remaining area, or about 9,000,000 acres, could be drained, and it is considered would repay the expenditure.

COULD BE DRAINED.

Throughout the whole tract there is ample fall which would allow of drainage being successfully carried out. Not over 2,000,000 acres is covered with water. Climatic conditions prevailing, it is stated, offer no obstacle to farming, and experiments in agriculture attempted there have always been successful.

"The difficulties of transportation to reach this section, as also to reach the beautiful and fertile valley of the Clearwater river, will no longer exist when the railway to McMurray, which is now proposed to be built, is conpleted," says the report in conclusion.

The Ladies' College.

The meeting called to discuss the new Presbyterian Ladies' College, Thursday evening last, in the Oddfellows' Hall, was well attended, among those present being a number of the prominent citizens of the town. The chair was occupied by Mayor S. E. McKee, who asked Rev. Mr. Tyner to open the meeting with prayer, after which he called on Rev. Mr. Brown to inform the meeting what had been done up to the present date.

Mr. Browm started at the beginning, showing step by step the action taken by H. Jamieson and himself in bringing the question to the attention of the synod and the subsequent meeting of the committee, and the decision to locate at Red Deer. He then spoke of the effort to secure a suitable man for the position of President, and how they had unanimously picked on Rev. Mr. Keith for the important position. He paid a glowing tribute to that gentleman as a preacher, a scholar and a business man, and felt the college would be a success in his hands.

Mr. Keith was then called on by the chairman, and remarked that he was handicapped, as Mr. Brown had showered so many compliments on him that he could hardly fill so lofty a niche, however, he would do his best to win the good will of the people of the town and district. He was greatly pleased with the beautiful town of Red Deer, its fine buildings, nice streets, magnificent scenery, and he thought it an ideal town for a ladies' college. He had unbounded confidence in the future of this great province, and then devoted a short time to the work mapped out for the college.

R. L. Gaetz made a short and pointed address, speaking of Red Deer as an educational centre, and the interest displayed in favor of the ladies' college at this point.

Joseph Wallace, Rev. Mr. Tyner, and Geo. W. Greene also made short addresses. H. Jamiesom proposed that a committee of citizens be appointed to take up the work of canvassing for subscriptions towards the building fund, and suggested the following names: E. Michener, R. L. Gaetz, W. L. Gibson, Joseph Wallace, T. B. Millar, A. J. Carswell, G. W. Greene, W. E. Lord, S. E. McKee, Dr. Collison, F. W. Galbraith, R. B. Welliver, Rev. Brown, Rev. Keith and H. Jamieson.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Geo. W. Geeene, seconded by T.B. Millar, of Sylvan Lake, introduced the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously:

"Resolved that this meeting convened to consider matters relative to the Young Ladies' College, to be established at Red Deer, express its pleasure and satisfaction that the efforts of the committee to have the proposed Young Ladies' College located at Red Deer have been crowned with success; and would now cordially commend the whole movement in connection with the raising of funds for the building, equipment and endowment of the institution to the sympathy and liberality of every citizen of the town and surrounding districts."

The meeting then closed with the National Anthem.

A meeting of the committee was held on Monday evening in Mr. Michener's office, when a vigorous canvass of the town was decided upon in aid of the college. Committees of three were appointed for each day of the week.

The canvass up to Tuesday noon had been most successful, the magnificent sum of $4,675 having been promised by citizens, and no doubt this has already been largely increased. Mr. Keith was highly gratified at the success met with, as only a few peonle they had rhet had refused to aid in some way, and some promised to consider the matter later on.

Juvenile Bostonians

The Juvenile Bostonians at the Lyric on Saturday night last were well patronized, the hall being so full that many left on account of not being able to get seats. The attractive Irish operetta "The Rose of Blandeen," was played, and well played too, by most of the company. Rose Henry was especially good as Barney Brannigan. Also Doris Canfield, as Denis O'Dare, and Stubby Myling, as Tootsie Malone were very laughable and entertaining. Manager Wilson of the Lyric is to be congratulated on bringing such a splendid company here.

Death of Croft Broughton

On Sunday afternoon, Croft Broughton, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Broughton, passed away after a long and painful illness, patiently borne. Lorn at Great Grinsby, England, passing his early youth there, and being educated at the Municipal College and technical schools of that seaport. Coming to Red Deer four years ago, he engaged in business with his father, becoming a careful, capable and proficient machinist.

He was of a quiet and unassuming disposition, and more considerate of others than himself. Love of law and order and respect towards his elders, combined with deep religious convictions, endeared him to his family and personal friends.

The funeral took place yesterday to the Red Deer cemetery, Rev. Mr. Tyner conducting the service. Mr. and Mrs. Broughton have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

THE TIMES SAYS "HAVE NO FEAR."

London, Oct. 22.—The Times says there never has been the slightest doubt that the western provinces are destined to be populated and developed by Europeans, and when its future is so well assured, the Canadian west can afford to contemplate with calmness and without fear the trickle of Asiatis immigration into their huge territories. It will never become a torrent, and may reasonably be expected to diminish.
